University Center plans given

Activities director named

by GARRETT STEARNS

Joseph A. Simon is the new Director of Student Activities, Chancellor Donald E. Shipp has announced.

Simon will also be in charge of the Intramural Sports Program, according to Dr. Shipp. The director comes to LSUS from the University of New Orleans (UNO) where he was program director of the UNO University Center from 1972 to 1975.

"The LSUS University Center program is being begun now with Mr. Simon's appointment and student committees are being formed through the Student Activities Board (SAB)," said Dr. Jimmie N. Smith, vice chancellor for Student Affairs. Simon's position as director of student activities falls under the Student Affairs Office.

"I THINK THAT student activities of a recreational and educational nature are an important part of a student's co-curricula activities. We're glad to have a person such as Mr. Simon who has had several years of experience on three large university campuses to help direct our program. Under his direction and with the efforts of students to help plan and execute the various program's I'm sure the LSUS activities program will be increased tremendously," Dr. Smith said. He further commented, "You learn and enjoy planning activities as much or more as you can the actual participation in them."

"We (student activities) are part of the education process—you learn by doing. It is a real opportunity to do these things and be involved in group activity," said Simon. He expressed involvement of students as his major concern.

When confirming the new director's appointment, the Chancellor also announced that "the preliminary architect's sketches of our University Center should be expected very soon from center architect Harold Pique of Metairie." Dr. Shipp revealed that the $1 million bond issue voted by students last year had gained legislative approval in July. "The student fee increase of $20 per semester had already received approval by the LSU Board of Supervisors last fall, thus allocating $3.4 million for the University Center," he added.

THE PROPOSED PLANS for the University Center will encompass a two-story structure in keeping with the style of the present buildings. The new activities director announced that the center's first floor should contain a food service and dining area, a bookstore, a 600 seat permanent auditorium-theater, a lounge area, enclosed television room, a game-recreation room and an information desk.

The center's second floor should house an art gallery, a music listening room, meeting rooms of various sizes for campus organizations, an arts and crafts shop with darkroom facilities for student and officers of major student organizations such as the Student Government Association, SAB, the yearbook and the campus newspaper.

Final day for adding classes is Tuesday.

"PLANS CALL for the University Center to be as student-oriented as possible and will be in an excellent place in relation to the overall design of our campus," Simon said. Priorities to be included in the center were recommended by the Long Range Planning Committee after a student poll was taken last fall.

Simon has also served as assistant director of the University of Arkansas Union and program advisor and relief night manager for the LSU Baton Rouge Union.

The director holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from LSU-Baton Rouge where he was a graduate assistant in the History Department and among the top ten per cent in his undergraduate and graduate classes. The Baton Rouge native is a member of Pi Tau Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi business honoraries and Phi Alpha Theta, a history honorary.

Student Activities presents 'The Sting'

Friday night movies, Monday film shorts, dances, classical music and outdoor concerts are some of the events being planned this semester by the Student Activities Board (SAB), according to president Tommy Starkey.

Dates for the events have not yet been set, Starkey said, but will be decided "in the near future." The SAB meet Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Snack Bar.

Friday night movies will be shown in the Science Lecture Auditorium. Two people will be admitted with one student ID. Movies scheduled, and their showtimes, are: "The Sting," Sept. 5 — 1, 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "And Now for Something Completely Different," Sept. 12 — 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "A Clockwork Orange," Sept. 19 — 1, 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "Chinatown," Sept. 26 — 1, 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "The War Between Men and Women," Oct. 3 — 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "Marriage of a Young Stockbroker," Oct. 10 — 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "Carnal Knowledge," Oct. 17 — 1, 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "Casino Royale," Oct. 24 — 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "The Great Gatsby," Oct. 31 — 1, 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "What's Up Tiger Lily?," Nov. 7 — 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "Take the Money and Run," Nov. 14 — 1, 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "2001: A Space Odyssey," Nov. 21 — 1, 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "The Way We Were," Nov. 24 — 1, 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "The Gravy Train," Dec. 5 — 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Movie shorts, to be shown every Monday at noon beginning Sept. 8, include: "The Pigskin War," "Duck Soup" and "The Jewel Robbery," all with the Marx Brothers; "The Outlaws are Coming," with the Three Stooges; "Flying Bullets," with Roy Rogers; "Be Big," with Laurel and Hardy; and "Mars Attacks the World," with Flash Gordon.

Radio show aids students

by BESS MAXWELL

LSUS is presenting a new radio show on weekends that will provide practical experience for the Communications 275 Broadcasting class, according to John Tabor, director of Information Services.

The 15 minute programs are presented at 3:30 p.m. Saturdays and 8:45 a.m. Sundays on station KFLO, 1300 on the AM dial. They feature interviews with different guests on various topics of interest to the school and its students.

The shows, which have been on the air for six weeks, have featured such guests as John Powell, speaking about the CPA review course; Dr. Frank Lower, speaking about the debate team; Dr. Vincent Marsala, speaking about the Health Education workshop; William McCleary speaking about the library and Edgar Chase about financial aid.

The Broadcasting class, taught by Dr. Lillian Hall on Wednesday nights, will have a hand in interviewing, script writing and editing the show, as well as setting up interviews with the guests.

The dates for coming shows and their topics are: Aug. 30 & 31—Dr. Larry Marshman: "Special Education;" Sept. 6 & 7—John Powell: "Legal Assistance."

Registration sets record

by GEORGE SYLVIE

A LSUS enrollment record has been set for the fall semester, according to the latest registration figures released by Fabia E. Thomas, registrar.

The total of last week's three registration days was 2,946, less than one per cent more than last fall's record of 2,921 and short of the predicted enrollment of 3,228.

Thomas explained the slight increase and unmet prediction as subject to various factors. "A matter of judgment" is involved in estimating the per cent of area high school graduates LSUS is expected to receive. Difficulty is also encountered in guessing how many continuing students are satisfied with the campus and consequently will return. Thomas supported her reasoning by pointing out that 200 more continuing students registered this year, while the incoming freshmen total was 50 less than expected.

The lower percentage increase was explained by Thomas' emphasis on actual numbers involved. She expected 180 late registrants last Wednesday, thereby increasing the total to 3,126, only 100 less than the original estimate and "unbelievably accurate for LSUS."

UPDATE

A total of 172 people completed late registration it was announced Thursday. The figure raises the total enrollment to 3118.

Enrollment estimates are determined by Thomas and Dr. James W. Firnberg, coordinator of the Office of Institutional Research for the LSU System and are the backbone for predicting budgets for academics departments, instructor hiring, course scheduling and class enrollments.

Business Administration and General Studies were the only colleges that added to their previous figures. Business had the largest enrollment—816 students representing a one per cent increase. General Studies had the biggest jump in terms of per cent, 11 per cent more than last fall and 513 in all. Other colleges experienced decreases in enrollments.

Suggestion for the new year

For better or worse another semester, another school year, has started again. It always comes so sudden, so soon. No matter how long the break is, whether it's the four week Christmas holidays or the three month summer break, no one is quite prepared for that first jolt of a morning class.

To those how are returning, whether it's for the second semester or second degree, the Almagest welcomes you back. To the new students, we can only say "break a leg."

We extend a cordial welcome to the new faculty and staff members.

We can offer no solutions to the hard work each student suffers through—there aren't any. But we can offer a suggestion that might make it all a little easier: become involved. Sure, it's a trite old cliché, but it has a new meaning for us at LSUS.

As the school enters its ninth year, more clubs and organizations than ever before have become an integral part of campus life. "Something for everyone" is almost an understatement.

Education, particularly at a commuter school such as this, is the first priority; it should be. However, it's a mistake to let this be the only priority.

If you aren't already involved, then become so. Quit using those excuses. The friends you'll make and the experiences you'll have are things you will not forget as easily as those endless book chapters.

As with almost every semester, the Almagest staff has undergone a massive overhaul. Some members have left (and will be missed), others have returned and some are new. All of us look forward to a challenging as well as productive semester.

A new year — a new beginning

by GARRETT STEARNS

A new beginning—that's what the start of a semester means for students.

For some of us, it's a return to the university which we have chosen in pursuit of an education. For the freshmen, it's the beginning, with the accompanying adjustments to the subtleties and the realities of college. But all of us have the same opportunity to excel in academics—an area which may benefit a student immeasurably.

Often students don't realize how important it is to learn, not just attend college and get a degree. This is often found out the hard way when one graduates and is out looking for a job. One must be well prepared to enter the working world if any measure of success is to be achieved. This can be accomplished through both the learning as well as the social processes. Students are urged to broaden their spectrum by attending Student Activities Board events and activities and have at least an interest if not direct participation in our Student Government Association. Don't forget the lecturers which our Artists and Lecturers and Bicentennial Committees bring to LSUS, after much consideration is given to availability and budgetary requirements. The various clubs and organizations also bring a wealth of knowledge to the campus if only the students will take the opportunity.

Despite this hopeless meandering, remember that since this is your present academic home, get to know your teachers and staff, for this will have a lasting effect. Make the most of the excellent opportunities provided by our dedicated faculty and staff.

In short, the way you can help yourself the most is to start generating something from within. And the generation of those ideas and actions start with you.

Don't touch that sticker!

As all returning students found out, car registration just ain't what it use to be. No longer are students just given a sticker and told to put it on the window. It seems there is a new state by law prohibiting all window sticker except inspection tags. But students still aren't given the new stickers, which go on the bumper. According to Campus Security, too many students could not follow instructions and put the blue emblem where it was suppose to go. So now they put it on for you. (photo: Roger Herring)

Policy on letters

The Almagest welcomes all letters to the editor and will print as many as space permits. We ask that they be limited to 300 words, typed (double spaced) and on the editor's desk (room 328, Bronson Hall) by 1 p.m. Tuesdays. No letter will be printed unless it is signed by the writer. We also ask that the writer's address and telephone number be included.

The Almagest reserves the right to edit all letters. Once submitted, letters become the property of the Almagest and will not be returned.

'For the rednecks'

by JERE LONDMAN II

(Editor's note: The following article originally appeared in the Daily Reveille on Feb. 13, 1975.)

Remember when a home football game meant having to go to the stadium at 4 p.m. to get a decent seat? Well, when the LSU-Rice game rolls around next season you'd better go earlier. The game's in Shreveport.

Athletic Director Carl Maddox, Chancellor Paul Murrill and the Athletic Committee of the Board of Supervisors ate a sure touchdown pass when they decided to sacrifice a loss of $12,300 in game revenues to stage the contest in the smaller Shreveport arena.

"Why?" you ask. Maybe the Boy Scouts had a camporee planned and and couldn't make it. Or maybe they expect an excessive number of old ladies to cross the streets than night. Possibly the Angel Flight girls didn't want to meet the Owls at the airport.

Or just maybe Billy Graham has a revival scheduled that night. Maybe.

Of course politics weren't involved. It was simply the philanthropic nature of the University to give those North Louisiana rednecks who normally sit around and clean Coke bottles on Saturday nights a chance to see topnotch football.

What about the students? Who? Oh, you mean those people who are forced to pay an athletic fee and for whom the school and athletic team exist.

Well, look at it this way. You won't have to wait in line four hours for a wilted hot dog and you won't have to smuggle your booze into the stadium in your binoculars. . .

Oh, yeh, one more thing. You can mess around Saturday night instead and watch 'em go for a tie Sunday in the Charlie Mac Show.

Maybe the board members can schedule a postseason game with Open Date in the Toilet Bowl.

College diplomas don't assure jobs

by CARLOS COLON

There once was a time when a college diploma carried along a certain amount of job insurance. My friends, that ain't the way it is any more. (You are reading the thoughts of an English major who took thirty-seven hours in his last two semesters in order to graduate, only to discover that he was unable to find a job. Needless to say, he has returned once again to the academic sphere.)

To gain employment today, it is necessary to have experience. Not only job experience as a whole is needed, but particularly experience in the skills of one's desired field. No longer should the childish illusions be believed that industry will await the college graduate with open arms.

Certainly, there are cases when job offers will abound for the student who chooses a vocation which has an oversupply of openings, though only a few qualified applicants. Business majors, particularly those who specialize in areas, such as accounting and hospital administration, will stand a fair chance of finding employment, also.

But the Liberal Arts majors, many of whom find the business curriculum too dry, will probably not be as lucky. The ability to explicate a Shakespearean sonnet, to discuss Platonic and Aristotelian philosophies, to memorize the chronological sequence of French monarchs—none of these will be of great help to the prospective job hunter.

The problem is not that college is useless for the individual, but that the learning experience of college has not been, for the most part, correlated to the outside world of business.

The same old dilemma continues to exist. The endless circle of the graduate who cannot find employment because he has no experience, and who will not be able to gain any experience until he can get a job. But never fear. "They also serve who only sit and study" — Olivia Milton-John.

New LSUS faculty appointed

Chancellor Donald E. Shipp has announced the appointment of 10 full-time faculty members in the College of Education, Liberal Arts and Business Administration.

The appointees to the College of Education are Dr. Gale W. Bridger, assistant professor of education; Dr. Richard M. Flicker and Dr. Mark P. Vigen, both assistant professors of psychology and Susan S. Taylor, psychology instructor.

Dr. Bridger, born in Minden, has an Ed.D. degree from the University of Mississippi where she was a non-service fellow and B.A. and M.A. degrees from Louisiana Tech. Also she attended Northeastern Illinois University in the summer of 1966.

She has been an administrative coordinator and teacher at Captain Shreve High School, a teacher at Byrd High and Midway Junior High schools, a supervisor of language arts and social studies in Holly Springs, Miss., and a supervising teacher for both Louisiana Tech and Centenary.

Dr. Bridger is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, Louisiana Teachers Association, Mid-South Educational Research Association and Phi Kappa Phi.

Dr. Flicker, native of Brooklyn, holds M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Purdue where he was an administrative assistant and a graduate teaching assistant and instructor. His B.S. degree is from the City College of City University of New York.

He holds membership in the Midwestern Psychological Association and the American Psychological Association.

Dr. Vigen received a Ph.D. degree at the University of Utah where he was also an academic minority counselor. Additionally, he has an M.S. degree from the University of Detroit, an M.A. degree from the University of Michigan and a B.A. degree from St. Thomas College in Denver.

In Salt Lake City, his hometown, he was a psychologist for Project Reality and a psychologist-intern at the VA Hospital. He was a counselor-therapist at the Milan Federal Prison in Milan, Mich.

Taylor earned B.S. and M.S. degrees in psychology at Northwestern State University where she was a graduate assistant from 1969-71 and an instructor from 1972-75.

Also, she was a student psychologist for the Natchitoches Mental Health Center and a Psychologist Assistant I at the Shreveport Mental Health Center.

She is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Psi Chi and Louisiana Association of School Psychology.

Three full-time faculty members have been appointed in the College of Liberal Arts.

They are Dr. Norman W. Provizer and Dr. Marvin G. Stottlemire, both assistant professors of political science and Dr. Kenneth E. Hinze, assistant professor of sociology.

Dr. Provizer holds an A.B. degree from Lafayette College in Easton, Pa., and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania.

The Chelsea, Mass., native has been a research associate for the Foreign Policy Research Institute in Philadelphia and a lecturer in international relations and social science at Penn State. He held a grant from the Anspach Institute at the University of Pennsylvania for research in Uganda for his dissertation.

Dr. Provizer is a member of the American Political Science Association and the African Studies Association.

Dr. Stottlemire, born in Rock Springs, Wyo., received a B.A. degree from the University of Oregon and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Rice where he held a Ford Foundation Research Grant. He also attended Southwestern Oregon Community College in Coos Bay, Ore. For the past two years he has been an instructor at Lamar University.

His professional organizations include International Studies Association and the American Political Science Association.

Dr. Hinze, a native of Fort Worth, has a B.A. degree from Baylor where he held a university scholarship and A.M. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago where he was a research assistant.

He has been a sociology instructor at the University of Texas at Arlington, a teacher with the Peace Corps in Micronesia and a social worker assistant with the U.S. Army.

Faculty members who have been appointed in the College of Business Administration are Dr. Luvonia J. Casperson, assistant professor of economics and finance; Gary C. Pickett, assistant professor of business administration and Sandra F. Jolley, instructor of office administration.

Dr. Casperson, a native of Megargel, Ala., has Ph.D., M.A. and B.B.A. degrees from the University of Oklahoma where she was a graduate assistant. Her graduate work has been in urban and development economics and her undergraduate degree was awarded with distinction. She also attended William H. Faulkner Junior College in Bay Minette, Ala., where she was named the college's Outstanding Young Woman in 1971. At Oklahoma in 1970 she received the Faculty Scholastic Award for Outstanding Senior Women.

She has been a member of the faculty at Oklahoma City University since 1973, and in 1971 was an instructor at the Oklahoma Center for Continuing Education.

Dr. Casperson is a member of American Economic Association, Beta Gamma Sigma and Omicron Delta Epsilon.

Pickett, from Wilmington, N. C., holds M.B.A. and B.S. degrees from Mississippi State and also attended High Point College in North Carolina from 1963-1966.

He recently completed course work for a doctorate degree in business administration at Mississippi State where he has been a graduate teaching assistant since 1973. His graduate major is business statistics and data processing with minors in management and marketing.

Pickett is a member of American Institute for Decision Sciences, American Statistical Association, Phi Kappa Phi and Beta Gamma Sigma. He is the 1973 recipient of the Mississippi State chapter of Data Processing Management Association's Certificate for Outstanding Achievement and Potential for Success in Electronic Business Data Processing.

Jolley, born in Texarkana, received an M.S. degree in business education from Louisiana Tech in 1963, a B.S. degree in business education from East Texas State University in 1962 and an associate degree in business from Texarkana Junior College in 1960.

The new faculty member was a secretarial science instructor at the University of New Orleans from 1963-68.

In 1962 she received the Award of Merit in Business Education. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, Pi Omega Pi and Alpha Chi.

Special Lecturers include College of Business Administration; William Joseph Allen, Health Care Administration; James Kenneth Elrod, Health Care Administration; Business Lawyer Phillip J. Goode, Business Administration; Lloyd E. Lenard, Finance; Lawyer Eugene R. Marshall, Management; Lawyer Michael R. Mangham, Business; Lawyer Glen H. Smith, Business.

College of Education: Geraldine Garner, Amaryllis and Ferne Turner, all Library Science.

College of Liberal Arts: Harold King, News Reporting and Feature Writing; Roger W. Runge, Ceramics and Crafts; Susan Thompson, Spanish.

College of General Studies: Caddo Parish Assistant District Attorney Daniel J. Grady, Criminal Investigation; Crime Lab Director Ray Herd, Drug Abuse and Criminal Justice; Caddo Assistant District Attorney Charles Lindsay, Law and Criminal Code; Caddo Assistant District Attorney Burl Nesbitt, Introduction to Law Enforcement; Patrolman Maurice Hendrix, Introduction to Law Enforcement.

Debaters display trophies

by SANDY BELLAR

Awards won by LSUS debaters are on permanent display in a trophy case recently placed on the second floor of Bronson Hall in front of the Academic Affairs Office.

"The team concluded its first year of intercollegiate competition by winning first and third places in Junior Division Debate and first place in Extemporaneous Speaking at the Louisiana Forensic Association State Tournament," said Dr. Frank Lower, debate coach.

"Furthermore," he added, "during the season the team traveled to eight tournaments visiting campuses in four states and captured 29 awards and honors."

Anticipating another successful year, team members are searching for resource material on this year's national topic "Resolved: The Federal Government should establish a comprehensive land use policy in the United States."

On Sept. 20 the speakers will attend a special forensic workshop at USL in Lafayette. Again this year teams from Louisiana Tech, Center, Oklahoma and Southwest Texas State will compete with LSUS. The LSUS campus will also host an invitational tournament Nov. 21-22.

"Invitations to the all-forensic tournament have been sent to schools in Texas, Oklahoma, Mississippi and Louisiana," Dr. Lower said.

Any LSUS student is invited to join the team. Additional information may be obtained by contacting Dr. Lower in room 352, Bronson Hall.

Students earn scholarships

Sixteen area high school graduates were awarded scholarships to attend Louisiana State University in Shreveport this fall, according to Edgar Chase, LSUS director of student financial aid.

Ten students received LSUS Merit Scholarships. The four-year awards are made by the LSUS Scholarship Committee to persons who have outstanding academic and extracurricular high school records. Each recipient must maintain an overall average of 3.0 to hold the award.

Recipients and their schools are: Charles R. Boyd, Mansfield; Ann Branch, Captain Shreve; Jon H. Flair, Byrd; Diane M. Haase, Bossier; John S. Merriman, Jesuit; Susan J. Peddy and William M. Spurlock, Northwood; John N. Petty Jr. and Mark Lee Stephens, Woodlawn; and Mark P. Steinmetz, Southwood.

Six other area students received LSU Alumni Federation Scholarships, awarded for one academic year. Recipients are selected on the basis of high school performance.

Chosen for this award are: Steven L. Balfe, Woodlawn; Susan R. Barker, Byrd; Steven L. O'Bannon, Southwood; Sharon M. Haughee and Alvin C. Knowles, Parkway; and James J. Zakris, Bossier.

Lyons named to LSU board

Billy G. Lyons, president of the Student Government Association (SGA), has been selected as a student member of the LSU Board of Supervisors.

The position was recently approved by the state legislature, according to Lyons, who will represent students from all LSU campuses until June 1, 1976, when his term expires.

The act provides for one student member of each of the management boards for higher education in the state.

Lyons was selected by and from a council of student body presidents from LSU campuses.

Each student member must be a full-time student and is ineligible to succeed himself. Lyons will have all the privileges and rights of other board members except the right to vote, and will receive the same per diem, travel and other expenses.

Lyons said the act will "allow student bodies a voice on the board. We, the students of all the campuses, can provide input."

Anyone interested may call the LSUS Office of Conferences and Institutes at 865-7121, extension 262.

Hot breakfasts

The Snack Bar grill will begin offering hot breakfasts next Tuesday from 7-9 a.m., according to SGA President Billy Lyons. The menu will consist "probably of such items as bacon, eggs, toast, as he said.

According to Bud Clack of Pickett Foods, the breakfast schedule will be "strictly on a trial basis." After three weeks a decision will be made on whether to continue the program or not, Clack said.

The grill will shut down after breakfast until 11 a.m. when it will serve lunch until 1 p.m. An expanded food selection will be offered, also according to Lyons.

Prof travels

Dr. Robert H. Russell, assistant professor of communications at LSUS, attended an Association for Education in Journalism conference at Carleton University in Ottawa, Canada Aug. 16-20.

Dr. Russell, a native of Warren, Ark., is the faculty advisor for the Almagest.

Classified

The Almagest will once again be accepting classified ads as a free service to students, faculty and staff members. The ads must not represent a business or commercial enterprise and the policy of equal opportunity to which the Almagest subscribes must be adhered to. Ads are subject to editing and will be run for two weeks, then cancelled if not renewed. Contact the Almagest, room 328 of Bronson Hall, phone 865-7121, ext. 328.

Summer honor roll given

Some 233 full-time and 120 part-time students have made the summer semester honor roll at Louisiana State University in Shreveport.

To qualify for the list, students must compile a 3.5 or B plus average.

Ninety-eight full-time students made 4.0 or straight A averages.
